

'67 Sparkäfer

Ultramarine Blue Standard

Guide | 11 Mar 2021 | Limebug Guide

---

1967 Beetle Rebuild The Full Restoration

In 2018, here at Limebug we undertook this huge nut and bolt restoration; a lovely Ultramarine Blue 1967 1200 Sparkäfer Beetle needing to be brought back to its original glory.

We had the car sat around looking sorry for itself for approximately 9 years and decided it was high time this job got underway. Its not our usual style to build a completely standard car, but to prove to ourselves and others we kept as it should have been (all be it we couldn't help but lose the ugly 66 vented steel wheels for the clean early smoothie domes).

From a wreck to a fully built car running/ driving and ready for MOT in 4 months, the little Blue beetle had its debut at Volksworld 2018 and looked right at home in the Sandon Hall.

Beside all the up to date new parts we still wanted to retain the non-deluxe options the car came with as standard such as there is no chrome dash trim, no door contact pins, standard steering wheel which doesn't have a chrome horn ring, no radio, blanked off antenna, 1200 original Headliner, Driver side only sun visor and painted wiper arms / door levels and window winders.

The car retains its original matching numbers engine/ gearbox / pan and body.